Guide Price: £295,000

683 sq ft

An extremely rare opportunity, we offer for sale an amazing converted bell tower in North London with triple height ceilings in parts.

Located on the very top floor and with nearly 360 degree views over London, this unique one bed loft really does offer loft living at its most unique. With incredible features such as the original staircase used by the bell ringers which would be the ideal place to store guitars or even art work.

The current owner has sympathetically updated the apartment to include: beautiful wood flooring; an open-plan modern kitchen, bathroom with intricate tiling, coupled with some very subtle Victorian style finishes. These additions really compliment the already stunning nature of this raw space, with its exposed beams and gothic like windows.

Caroe Court must surely rank as one of the most unique residential buildings in North London. It is a stone's throw from Jubilee Park and with good road access to the North Circular. Aside from its obvious looks, the building offers an extraordinary living and working environment which can only really be appreciated in person.
